Emory’s Board of Trustees includes nine Alumni Trustees, who serve six-year terms as full members. Prospective Alumni Trustees are nominated by the Emory Alumni Board. Strong Alumni Trustee nominees will bring a range of skills, talents, and perspectives to the Board of Trustees. Factors considered important for consideration as an Alumni Trustee include:

- Demonstrated leadership.
- Diversity in gender, race, age, and geographic location.
- Expansive thinking to aid in defining the role of Emory in society by applying the University’s vision statement.
- Involvement in and experience with complex institutions.
- The ability to attract financial resources to Emory through individual giving or involving others.

Alumni Trustee nomination forms may be submitted together with up-to-two optional one-page letters describing how the Nominee meets at least one of the above-listed criteria. In addition, up-to-three additional pages of information may be submitted in support of the nominee and may include a biography, photographs, and copies of articles or publications, etc.
